

投资中国：当前环境下的机遇与挑战

Investment in China: Opportunities & Challenges in the Current Climate

刘依兰 · 史密夫斐尔律师事务所合伙人

Nanda Lau, Partner, Herbert Smith Freehills (HSF)

HERBERT
SMITH
FREEHILLS

Investment in China: Opportunities and Challenges in the Current Climate

Nanda Lau

November 2024

Herbert Smith Freehills at a glance

We are a leading international law firm operating at the heart of the new global business landscape, providing premium, full-service legal advice for some of the world's biggest organisations. We provide our clients with legal expertise and insight, and trusted advice based on global and local perspectives.

170+
years of history

24
offices

2,600+
lawyers

5,300+
Talented people

Global reputation of excellence

46
BAND 1 rankings
Chambers Global 2024

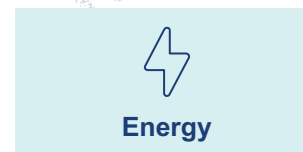

168
total rankings
Chambers Global 2024

226 total
individual rankings
Chambers Global 2024

Our primary sectors

Investment in China – Opportunities and Challenges in the Current Climate

- Overview of the Current Investment Climate in China
- Challenges and Opportunities for Investors
- Legal and Regulatory Considerations
- Strategic Recommendations

Overview

- China FDI drops but still some bright spots in the market
- Active sectors: consumer goods, automotive, advanced manufacturing, technologies
- Rise in innovative deal structuring and business models
- Relatively resilient M&A market despite economic uncertainties

Challenges for Investors

- Geopolitical headwinds
- China's economic slowdown
- Intense competitive landscape
- Regulatory compliance
- Conflicting legal systems/ standards

Opportunities for Investors

- Market size and potential
- Recent technological advancements in China
- Opportunities in renewable energy, carbon-neutral technology, and ESG related initiatives
- Latest regulations and policies to stabilise economy and boost investment

Legal and Regulatory Considerations

Three key developments that may impact investments in China:

- Foreign Investment Law and Amended PRC Company Law
- Relaxation of merger control filing regime
- Regulatory compliance, e.g. data protection and cross-border data transfer

Our Recommendations

- Engagement with government and local partners
- Reviewing China strategy
- Innovative deal structuring
- Conduct thorough due diligence
- Stay informed about regulatory changes
- Implement robust compliance programs

Scan the QR code to follow us on WeChat

